Hongkong, 12th March, 1883.

What was expected to prove an interesting match between teams representing Ireland and "The World" respectively, was commenced at the Cricket Ground yesterday afternoon, in fine cricketing weather and on a first rate wicket. Hynes, who captained the representatives of the Emerald Isle, won the toss for choice of innings and very discreetly elected to assume the defensive. It was a regular batsmen's day, and "The World" having a most feeble contingent of bowling talent, besides failing to shine conspicuously in the field, were treated to a afternoon's outing which must have taxed their patience and endurance considerably. As the ground is at present arranged, with a fence running round the entire circle, fielding, as generally understood at home, is only to a very slight extent exhibited in a Hongkong cricket match. All hits, big or little, unless driven straight to the fielders' hands, become boundary hits; the fielder has no running to do, and the batsmen the merest trifle, of pedestrian work. This system may be very convenient for our local cricketers, but it is really like playing cricket in a racquet court—and it is not legitimate cricket. No doubt, there are inconveniences in running out all hits, Queen's Road being frequently crowded with chairs and jinrickshas, but we should certainly say that it would be much better of the two evils to choose the lesser one and only have one boundary, that to the westward of the Pavilion side of the ground. However, to return to yesterday's game, the Irishmen retained possession of the wickets the entire afternoon, and when stumps were drawn for the night had amassed the large total of 254 runs for the loss of only five wickets. Rice was top scorer with 96, Travers, who made his debut for the season, made 38, Hynes 34, Coxon 24, and De Chair 21.

Shortly after two o'clock Hynes, accompanied by Rice, walked to the wickets, the attack being entrusted to Hendry and Johnston. Both men played cautiously for a few overs, but rapidly getting well "set," completely mastered the bowling, which was, by the way, of very little account. After bowling 5 overs, for 18 runs, Johnston was superseded by Greaves, St. Croix relieving the fast bowler. With the score at 69, Hynes gave Hendry a chance off St. Croix, which was accepted, the veteran retiring for a capital 34, which included half a dozen threes. Travers became Rice's partner, and immediately opening his shoulders to the attack.

the mounders, drove St. Louis hard to long on, but the catch, a rather difficult one owing to the sun shining in the field's eyes, was not accepted, and three runs were scored. Runs came rapidly after this let off, the "crack" bowler hitting out desperately at everything that came within reach, and the left hander, as usual, playing a lively game. At 140 Trumbull missed a straight one from the Foculow trundler, after putting together 38, which comprised, one 6, one 5, one 4, four 3's and 2's and singles. De Chair was next man in, and assisted Rice to raise the total to 191, in spite of repeated changes of bowling, Dobson, Bell-Irving, and Porter each having a turn, when he scooped one into the hands of Johnston at point, and made way for Coxon. Rice here gave a rather hard chance off Porter to short leg, which was not accepted, and in recognition of this let-off, scored a 3 and a 2 from the next two balls. The score sheet showed 377, when Rice at length got his quintus, giving Gordon at point a chance off Porter's bowling, which was smartly taken: The left hander had credited himself with just four short of the "century," a hard hit innings which included one 4, and sixteen 3's. Coxon and Bunbury kept up their wickets until gunfire, when the first named was clean bowled by Bell-Irving for an excellently compiled 24, five wickets being down for 252, of which Bunbury (not out) had made 16 in five hits, two sixes, one 4, one two, and a single.

Play was resumed shortly after eleven o'clock this forenoon, Bunbury and Stopford continuing the batting for Ireland. The bowling was again rather loose and the "tail" of the team managed to add considerably to the overnight total. The wickets fell in the following order: six for 283, seven and eight for 300, nine for 315, ten for 321 and eleven for 322. Bunbury showed good cricket for his 25, and Stopford (16), Dr. Pike (not out, 16), and Lloyd (15) all played well. Bell-Irving accounted for the last three wickets, Fogarty and Waring, succumbing to consecutive balls. His full analysis reads: 1. 34 balls for 27 runs and 4 wickets. Johnston had 7 wickets for 32 runs, St. Croix 3 for 78 and Porter one for 43. The large amount of 34 extras was a feature of the innings.

With the gigantic total of 322 runs to tackle, St. Croix sent in Johnston and Hare, the Irish captain deputising Rice and De Chair to open the bowling. Both men played a good game, and runs came freely from both bowlers. Hare was bowled by Hynes, with the total at 86 after scoring 36 by sterling cricket, and then a "rot" set in. Bell-Irving was sent back by Hynes at 100, Gordon had a retire without troubling the scorers at 109, and Hynes and Dobson also failed to start. Four for 112 and five for 114. When our report left Johnston and Hare were in possession the former having made 45. The following was the state of the game at 4.45.

THE HONGKONG VOLUNTEERS.
 "TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG TELEGRAPH."
 SIR,—A "Fair Play" in your issue of yesterday, overlooked one important point which, I conceive, tells strongly against the members of "A" battery having been allowed to vote at the recent election of officers for "B" battery. Both batteries, I presume, are supposed to be on an equality as regards rights and privileges; but this equality has been entirely destroyed by the exceptional vote accorded to "A" battery, by its members having had two chances of election to the commissions ranks, while the members of "B" battery have had only one. This alone is, in my opinion, sufficient, in equity, to damn the whole proceedings. Equality cannot therefore, be only restored by complete annulment of the late elections, or by cancelling all the commissions previously granted to the members of "A" battery and having a new general election for officers by both batteries. As, however, this latter course would present grave difficulties, there is nothing for it now, I consider, but to annul the recent election and have a new one at which only the members of "B" battery should be allowed to vote.

"Fair Play" is quite right as to the dissatisfaction existing, especially amongst the Portuguese members of "B" battery, who, however, refuse confidently on Sir George Bowen's well-known sense of justice to place matters on a footing that will remove all just cause of discontent.

Yours, &c.,

JUSTITIA.

Hongkong, 17th November, 1883.

For the benefit of "Justitia" and all others whom it may concern, we may state, that according to the existing rules and regulations of the Hongkong Volunteers, the late election of officers was perfectly legitimate so far as the voting by the members of "A" battery is concerned. Rules 12 and 13 read as follows:—

"The appointment of officers is vested in the Governor of the Colony. At all elections he has consented to restrict the officers from a list of names to be chosen by the Volunteers themselves.

"At the election all gentlemen who shall have enrolled themselves as Members either then or Honorary Members shall be entitled to vote."

It is, however, much to be regretted that the election of officers was put through in such a hasty manner, as the members were only supplied with copies of the "Rules" and "Regulations" a very short time before the election took place and, consequently, had not much opportunity of studying them. It cannot be denied that the general impression of the members of the new battery was that they were to be allowed to elect their own officers without any interference on the part of "A" battery. Doubtless Sir George Bowen will see his way clear to remove the dissatisfaction at present now existing amongst our local amateur soldiers.—
Editor H.K. Telegraph.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG TELEGRAPH."

SIR,—Your strictures and those of your correspondents on the recent election by the Hongkong Volunteers of a Captain and Lieutenants are based on errors of fact, which we have once corrected, will, I think, induce both you and your correspondents to admit that your criticisms on the conduct of the election are not well founded.

In the first place there is at present no "B" Battery. It has not been constituted, and it is extremely improbable that, when formed, it will consist entirely or in great part of the newly enlisted men. More probably the existing Battery will be divided into two, each half raised to the equivalent strength by the addition of new men and formed into two regiments. Thus each will have a fair share of trained men.

In the second place, all men join, not a Battery at the Corps; what Battery they may be posted to depends upon the Commandant. In like manner, the officers are officers of the Volunteer Corps, and not of any particular Battery. The Commandant may shift them about as he pleases. The Corps is the unit, not the Battery.

You will now, I think, see why all the men in the Corps took part in the recent election, and properly.—They were all equally interested in the result, as they were all able to find themselves at any moment under the command of any one of the new officers. The Commandant may appoint any officer he likes to the command of "A" Battery, and send me to take charge of "B" Battery. He will not place a newly elected Lieutenant one in each Battery, being the most convenient arrangement.

As to the mode of election, if there was any make in the methods adopted at the first or second election, the mistake was made at the election. Naming the individuals chosen Captain and Lieutenant led to a great deal of confusion, and it was a grave mistake in point of time making the result public before the approval of the Colonels had been obtained. At the last election each man had a paper the names of the men under whom, as an officer, he was willing to serve. The man who had the most votes, the man under whom most of the men were willing to serve, ought justly to be the Captain, and so on. I took no part in the recent election, but I am confident that it was fairly and honestly conducted. Neither Colonel Crawford nor Major Tripp could possibly have any end to view in introducing them to interfere with the election. The three men who had the most votes by the men who will be the officers, are the best men. If the recruits joined the Company under the mistaken idea that they were to be formed into a separate Battery and elect their own officers, it is not Colonel Crawford's fault. They asked to be permitted to join on those terms, but they were told that the Rules of the Company would not allow of it. They were told the election must be a general one, and that under no circumstances would themselves on that understanding and voted like any man, carrying the vote of their choice, Mr. Holmes. I am sure, Sir, that you have the interest of the corps at heart, and that you will do all you can to add us in forming and keeping up a good corps. There must always be little difficulties and heart-burnings where a number of men are associated together for any purpose. There are no real difficulties connected with Volunteer Associations. Please help us to get over these difficulties, instead of aggravating them. The corps is in a fair way to do well. The elected officers are good men, and will be a credit to the corps and a source of pride to the Colony may yet be proud of us.

Yours truly,
JNO. J. FRANCIS.

STEAMERS EXPECTED.

The D. D. R. steamer Marshall left Singapore on the 17th instant, and is due here on or about the 18th.

The steamer Radnorshire left Singapore on the 12th instant for this port, and is expected on the 16th.

The Austro-Hungarian Lloyd's steamer Hela, left Singapore on the morning of the 13th instant, and is expected to arrive here on the 16th.

The steamer Glaucus left Singapore on the 12th instant for this port, and is expected here the 20th.

November 9th, 1897.
Wet, thick and dirty, miserable weather has prevailed all this month, which does not promise well for our Races on the 12th and 14th-instant. But it's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and a wet, heavy course will probably bring the hitherto despised ponies to the front.
At last we have some signs of the impending troubles down south, by the departure of a number of soldiers by the C. N. Co.'s steamship Pekin, which left last night. On enquiry I find that the soldiers, numbering 80, are the body-guard of General Le Lun-shen, of the Yangtze river police, who was lately in charge at Yoh-chow-fu. The soldiers are fine, robust men, but I cannot speak favourably of the arms—old rusty iron muskets, which look neither ornamental nor useful. Le Lun-shen is on his way to Wu Way-chang, inland from Wuhu, to settle up his late period of office with the Commander-in-Chief, Le Yun-mow.
The river, I am pleased to say, is falling at last, thereby giving us some hopes of paper hunting over good ground before Christmas.
The two register-to-day showed 37 feet 11 in.—
Courier.

YOKOHAMA.

We note the departure by the Arabic of Admiral Crosby, late in command of the American fleet in this station.

We learn that Mr. Plunkett proposes to leave England for Japan in January. He will come via America, and as it is his intention to spend some time in the United States, his arrival in Japan cannot be looked for before the end of March.

We note the arrival, by the last American mail, His Excellency Count Charles Zaluski, His Imperial Austrian Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Japan. The Count is accompanied by Mr. H. Von Siebold, Legation Counselor, who arrived some months ago.

After a truce of seven months with the old world, the Maru Maru Shimbun has for a recent issue returned to the assault upon what seems abuses. We are shown a horse-fair, and stables over which is inscribed Reba-in, or Hospital for Aged Horses, an allusion evidently to the Genro-in or Senate. Far in the distance are the towers of Fukushima and Namikawa. Close to the stable a groom with a lantern features beamed in smiles holds a transparent steel, while at a distance a fractious horse is with difficulty held by a man in a kimono. The following dialogue takes place among the crowd:—"This is the animal that could not be subdued to work on the roads in the Fukushima." "That is so, and now he is assigned to the Old-horse Hospital." The jest is directed against Mr. Mishima, Prefect of Fukushima, who was a prominent figure in the recent prosecution of the Fukushima rioters, and is now recommended for promotion to the rank of the Genro-in refuge, where that superannuated and inefficient officer can be kept out of trouble and danger.

After a fortunate immunity of several months, Kokohama has again been visited by an extensive conflagration, which had its origin in a bath-use near the Zo-toku-in Temple, in Honmura. The fire was discovered about half-past two this morning (November 9th), and soon got a good head of the surrounding houses, and spread up the valley to Mr. Geran's, the works at Kawasaka crossing the road leading to the Bluff and extending to the Hundred Steps. It is estimated at between five and six hundred houses have been burned; consequently a large amount of property must have been destroyed which there is not time to remove. The engines of the defence brigades all turned out promptly and rendered good service, but, owing to the progress of the flames, as the order to evacuate the locality makes it a certainty that the district would have suffered to the end of the Honmura had it not been for their timely assistance. It is stated that one or more houses on the Bluff took fire from flying sparks, but we believe no damage was done. Early yesterday evening there was a fire at Odagawa; the extent of which we have not yet learned. —Japan Daily Mail.

PHILOSOPHY OF ADVERTISING.

— P R E S S I N G A D V E R T I S E R S W I T H T H E D E S I R A B I L I T Y O F K E E P I N G T H E I R W A R E S P U B L I S H E D . —

On his address to the editors of Indians at his recent meeting at Fort Wayne, says the Philadelphia Record, Colonel Gil Pierce, of the cargo Daily News, presented the following thoughts with reference to advertising, which worth remembering. He said:—

And in presenting a beautiful sheet typographically, one should remember the advertisers as well as the readers. A man likes to have his advertisement pleasing to look upon, catching the eye, and indicate generally of the advertiser. This class of patronage is so important for success that they should receive every arrangement. Particularly should they be impressed with the desirability of keeping their goods before the public. A man never realizes the full benefits of advertising till he has placed them before the same people fifty or a hundred times. The first ad. is good, but the hundredth is worth more than five hundred as much as the first. Some one has said the—

The first time a man looks at an advertisement does not see it.
 The second time he does not notice it.
 The third time he is faintly conscious of it.
 The fourth time he dimly remembers some-
 of the kind before.
 The fifth time he half reads it.
 The sixth time he turns his nose up at it.
 The seventh time he throws the paper down impatiently.
 The eighth time he ejaculates: "There's the damned thing again."
 The ninth time he wonders if there's anything in it.
 The tenth time he thinks it might possibly be somebody else's case.
 The eleventh time he thinks he will ask his neighbor if he has tried it, or knows anything about it.
 The twelfth time he wonders* if the advertiser
 makes it pay.
 The thirteenth time he rather thinks it must be good thing.
 The fourteenth time he happens to think it is what he wanted.
 The fifteenth time he for a long time resolves
 to try it as soon as he can afford it.
 The sixteenth time he examines the address carefully and makes a memorandum of it.
 The seventeenth time he is tantalized to think he hardly able to afford it.
 The eighteenth time he sees, painfully, how he is in need of that particular article.
 The nineteenth time he counts his money to know how much he would have left if he bought it.
 The twentieth time he rushes frantically forth
 to buy it.

7th November, 1883.
Our open season is now rapidly drawing to close, and wild geese and ducks becoming scarce. Having migrated to warmer climes. With our shipping the reverse is the case, every day in the last week having seen 4 or 5 vessels, steamers and sailing ships, arriving, and our harbour shows well up with forty-three sail of all descriptions except a man-o-war.
The native merchants complain bitterly, produce is scarce and daily rising in price, so they have great difficulty in sending goods to their consignment. The low freights in the south induced several vessels to come seeking here, and at present we have no less than seven of them, and not an offer for any of them for the last three weeks, and I am afraid most of them will have to leave in ballast, and accept very low rates. To-day the s.s. Haean arrived from Tientsin to take a thousand braves away to Taku. It was first reported that the Haean should go up to Tientsing-Tai, a large village about 20 miles higher up the river than the soldiers were to go, but the lively navigation committee there, but the difficult navigation had altered the programme, as she went alongside the Taotai's new pier, which is now nearly finished. Two more of the C.M.S.N. Co.'s steamers are reported due here in a few days to take another 2,000 troops away to Taku. The Lightship has received orders to leave on the 20th instant for Shanghai, to relieve one of the Lightships there while repairing. The weather is at present very mild, and it seems almost impossible that in a fortnight's time this river can be frozen over; still such has occasionally been the case.—Mercury.

CHINESE EXCLUSION IN RUSSIA.

It is generally known, says the San Francisco Bulletin, that Russia has controlled the north bank of the Amoor River to its mouth for several hundred years, and since the Korean war has had possession of the south side of the river to the line of Corfa and for several hundred miles from the ocean. The valley of the Amoor is fertile, but the region being remote from European Russia, it has been settling slowly, and with population composed largely of convicts. The principal southern branch of the Amoor is the Angeria, which flows for many hundred miles through a productive country, capable of supporting many millions of inhabitants. The Chinese have been spreading northward into Manchouria since the beginning of the seventeenth century, and during the last twenty-five years have gradually filled up the region, pressing up to the Russian line, and even crossing it to settle in the Siberian towns and take possession of many departments of labor and trade. Hence, there has arisen a serious question that Russia will have soon to meet with all the resources of her statesmanship. If the Chinese are able in America to successfully compete with the Celtic and Anglo-Saxon laborer, they will find competition with the indolent Russian comparatively easy. The result will be that unless Russia places some restriction on the Chinese, the valley of the Amoor will be filled with them, and they will be the principal agriculturists, merchants, mechanics and manufacturers of that region. It was taken from them by Russia, and this will be their method of reconquering it. Russia realizes the danger, and is trying to anticipate Chinese occupation by assisting convicts to settle there. Several thousand have already arrived in the South Ussuri district. It is also contemplated to colonize a part of the valley with troops of the reserve, whose presence and discipline will obviate the necessity of sending forces whenever war is threatened. It is the opinion of the Russian press that these colonies will not thrive unless users are excluded and Chinese not otherwise restrained by a special tax or kept out entirely as in America. So it seems that our Exclusion law is so far from seeming to the world unjust, it is beginning to be recognised as the only possible solution of a profound problem by other nations who are suffering from Chinese immigration. In Mongolia, Tibet, Annam, Cambodia, Siam, Malacca, Burmah and many parts of India, the Chinese have for a long time controlled nearly all lines of active business, to the exclusion of the native inhabitants. They have everywhere developed the same economical, crushing, grasping qualities that have been found so objectionable in California, and their emigrants have been drawn from the boundless supplies at home. There are enough of them to replace all the tribes and nations of North and South America without perceptibly diminishing the aggregate of their population. The people of India, Burmah, Siam and Annam and others who are their neighbors, are too weak to resist the invasion. It remains to be seen how successfully the Anglo-Saxon and Slav will cope with it.

M. R. MOORE begs to recommend his
to the public as unrivalled by any preparation ever produced for promoting the growth of the hair. The basis of this compound is made of soap root; the natives of the Philippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; they are never found bald,
and it is quite common to see hair air from 5 to 6 feet long. By constantly using the Shampoo Wash as directed, you will NEVER BE BALD.

The proprietor offers the Wash to the public entirely confident that by its restorative properties it will without fail arrest dandruff,
It completely eradicates scurf, decaying and cures all diseases of the scalp. It does not contain any poisonous drugs. By its cooling properties it allays the itching and fever of the scalp, which is the great cause of people losing their hair.
Mr. MOORE has succeeded in being able to this wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate.
